Long Distance Training for Team Performance Improvement

Today most product and service firms pull their value behind them and force their company into a commodity position with their competitors. When executives say, "We have great service," "we are customer centric," or "our offerings are the best," - they just sound like their competition. When you market and sell like your competitors - you become identical to your competitors... and you have to price your product or service equal to or less than your competitors.

IN FRONT OF YOU.

OUR TRAINING SOLUTION

The Value Forward program offers multiple teleseminar training programs on a broad range of subjects including best practices for marketing, strategy, management and sales.

We offer a variety of topics to meet every need and help you achieve your professional and personal goals.

ABOUT OUR TELESEMINARS

The Value Forward business coaching teleseminars (also known as group phone training seminars) are designed to help management staff and their team members learn detailed methods, techniques and business strategies to increase their business performance without leaving their office.

Each pre-scheduled training session is live and is implemented through a two-hour group telephone conference call with the attendees. Each attendee receives a detailed 20+ page workbook before each session which allows them to follow along and interact one on one with the business coach facilitator during the event.

By using the power of a group phone conference, an experienced value forward business coach and a detailed workbook, our teleseminar walks each attendee through the concepts, action steps and an interactive question and answer session with your team members to help them learn, understand, discuss, and use the subject material immediately. Each teleseminar supplies very detailed step-by-step instruction and business model suggestions.

The Value Forward Group and their consulting management partners have trained over 40,000 people during the last 7 years.
